Theological Education by Extension (TEE) is a ministry-oriented model of church leadership training whose primary purpose is to provide training for people who are already serving in church leadership positions. One author has called it "simply decentralized theological education.

Theological Education by Extension - GAMEO

Theological education by extension (TEE) is a term that describes a method and a movement that appeared in the missions world in the early 1960s. Responding to the rapidly changing patterns of the church, the ministry, and leadership training, TEE revolted against the residence type of theological education. It espoused a new form of education, "which yields to the life cycle of the student, that does not destroy or prevent his productive relation to society, and does not make the student
