Don Let Me Be Lonely

The genre that Rankin presents in Don't Let Me Be Lonely is postmodern. She toys around with form by not writing in a formal, generic poetry style. Though consisting of mostly prose poetry, she includes photos, outlined points, conversations as scripts, boldfaced lists, informal dialogue, a long list of end notes, and lot's of blank space.

A pervasive theme in Don't Let Me Be Lonely is the examination of American identity and what it means to be an American while also being part of a marginalized identity. The work shows us that factors such as immigration status, race, and mental health are often at odds with the "majority" white national identity.
