When it comes to sailing performance, Hanse 470 is simply great. Large sailing area (higher mast comparing to other sailing yachts of similar size), light epoxy v shaped hull- and a steel construction are making this sailing yacht great both in stability and sailing performance. Hanse 470 is very easy to sail with minimal crew members, and we were sailing her as party of 2. Instead of classic genoa there is a self tacking jib, and self tacking jib is much easier for handling and changing the ...

The 470 is a great boat; the only thing it needs above a Club 420 is a more powerful vang with a split control; the rest of it can be dead-nuts simple if you're not aiming for the Olympics. The down side of the 470 is that the class rule requires a hull construction that goes soft after an hour of sailing.
