Is the pause you wish to create with a punctuation mark (and the information that will follow it) subject to the precise rules of the colon and semicolon? If so, use the appropriate one. If not, ask yourself if the material to be added is essential or nonessential.

How To Punctuate A Pause In A Sentence

The most effective thing a comma does in a sentence is to create a pause. It's a visual breathing mark or break in a sentence that can either go unnoticed or stand out. Adding a comma where one might not necessarily be required should be an intentional choice—a moment where you are asking the reader to stop, sit up and notice.
